the ta The g effici of ou increa The g const again medi Our l Unite	Additionally, the Bank of Mongolia's effective monetary policy has successfully brought the inflation rate down to a single digit, stabilizing the target figure of 6.0%. This stability has increased the real interest rate, enhancing customers' propensity to save. The government's 2024 budget, which includes higher salaries and allowances, has elevated individual demand for loans. Our bank ha efficiently met this demand through accessible and efficient online loan services and products, contributing significantly to the rapid expansion of our retail market. Furthermore, changes by the Bank of Mongolia to the bad credit history of 155,315 individuals and enterprises hav increased loan demand. We are addressing this pent-up demand within our risk policy framework. The passage of the National Wealth Fund Act has increased mortgage funding, fueling growth in mortgage loans and stimulating the construction industry. For the first time, Mongolia's foreign currency reserves have exceeded $5 billion, strengthening the MNT exchange ra against the US dollar. This improvement positively impacts the import market, enhancing settlement activities for individuals, small ar medium enterprises, and large corporations. Our bank executes US dollar transactions quickly and at low cost through our nostro-account recently opened at BNY Mellon Bank in the United States. This not only boosts our share in the international settlement market but also supports cross-border trade and settlement contributing to Mongolia's economic recovery. Moreover, major economies have started lowering their benchmark interest rates, creating favorable conditions for attracting low-cost fund from foreign banks and financial institutions, and issuing potential debt instruments. The draft laws and regulations under consideration by the Parliament, which would enable remote customer registration, are expected to positively impact our ability to attract new customers if approved to positively impact our ability to attract new customers if approvention overe
